GLENWOOD PUTS ON GALA ATTIRE

State Meeting of P. O. S. of A. Will be Held There Tonight and Tomorrow.

LOCAL MAN IS HIGH OFFICIAL

Team From This City Will be Competitor For Coveted Prize in Drill Tonight.

Glenwood will have on its gala attire tonight and tomorrow for the annual State meeting of the Patriotic Sons of America which will be held there then. The contest among the drill teams of the State will be held tonight, when four teams will compete for the honors. All day tomorrow the business sessions will take place when the candidates for the State offices will be nominated and elected.

The big time of the State meeting will take place tonight when the drill teams will compete for the valuable prize which is offered. The team from Washington Camp, No. 9, which is located here, will be one of the contestants. The other teams which will try for honors are two from Indianapolis and one from Crawfordsville. The local team has been practicing for several weeks in preparation for the contest and have high hopes of taking the coveted prize. The Indianapolis and the Crawfordsville aggregations are coming with the expectation of winning also and a warmly contested drill is anticipated. A large class of candidates will be initiated tonight.

James Gregg of this city, who is State president of the order, will preside at all of the business sessions tomorrow. At the meeting in the morning the candidates for the State offices will be nominated and at the afternoon session they will be elected. The State meeting of the order was held here last year when Mr. Gregg was elected president.

REACH AGE LIMIT AND THEN MARRY

Young Couple, Who Were Refused a License Three Months Ago, Finally Have Birthday.

GIRL IS ONLY 16 YEARS OLD

Hardly waiting until they reached the age limit and after having been refused once before, Miss Mable Hile and Stephen Bayer were granted a marriage license late Saturday afternoon. The young bride is only sixteen years old, she having reached maturity, according to law, when she can marry, on July 31 of this year. The bridegroom was twenty-one years old June 1 of this year. The young couple were refused a piece of paper which would allow them to become man and wife just exactly three months before the day the license was issued to them. When they first applied for a license, their parents accompanied them, but they were refused because the young woman was not old enough.

YALE PROFESSOR HERE.

Wilbur C. Abbott, professor of European History in Yale University, visited his aunt, Anna E. Holliday, last Saturday. Prof. Abbott and family have been spending the summer in the White Mountains, Hanover, N. H., but during August he is one of the lecturers in the summer school at Chicago University.

TO BUSINESS MEN.

Prof. E. T. Lindley, head of the department of philosophy in Indiana University, who will give a course of lectures on "Popular Psychology" every afternoon this week at the seventh annual Rush county chautauqua now being held in the city, especially invites all the business men of the city to hear his lecture on "The Psychology of Advertising," tonight. The lecture is said to be money in the pocket of any retail merchant who takes advantage of the opportunity to hear it. Prof. Lindley gave the same lecture in Indianapolis last winter and received much favorable comment through the newspapers.

RECEIVES SIGNAL HONOR AT CONCLAVE

Earl Payne Appointed to Act as Aid-de-Camp on Ex-Governor Durbin's Staff.

AT KNIGHTS TEMPLAR SESSION

Several local Knights Templars left this morning for Chicago, where they will attend the thirty-second triennial convocation of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of the United States, Earl Payne, who is a prominent Mason, received a signal honor from Winfield T. Durbin of Anderson, ex-governor of the State, who is commander of the Seventh division of the Knights Templars. Mr. Payne was appointed to act as aid-de-camp on the staff of Mr. Durbin.

It is estimated that fully five hundred thousand people will attend the celebration from other cities, and at least 50,000 Knights Templar will participate in the monster parade which will start Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. All the Knights will be in uniform and this alone will present one of the prettiest sights that can be imagined. Several notables from the old country will also be present. It is next to impossible to conceive the large amount of money that is being used for the affair. Fully $200,000 has been spent for decorations. The headquarters for the Grand Commandery of Indiana will be in Parlors B. and S., Palmer House, Chicago.

INFANT CHILD IS DEAD

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hurst Succumbs.

Harriett, the fourteen-months-old daughter of F. J. Hurst and wife, died at their home in Orange township, Rush county, three miles east of St. Paul, at 4:30 o'clock Saturday morning, after a week's illness with cholera infantum. The child was the youngest of a family of eleven children. The funeral services were held at two o'clock this afternoon and burial took place in the St. Paul cemetery.

BACKS CAR INTO POST.

W. E. Harton damaged the rear panel of his automobile Sunday by backing into a gate post near New Castle. They discovered they were on the wrong road and in attempting to turn around his son Earl backed the machine into a large fence post. The post was partly rotten and broke, thus saving the machine from greater damage.

PARTY WORKERS SPEND DAY HERE

Committee of Republican Politicians Visit Rushville to Get in Touch With County Organization.

STATE CANDIDATE IS IN PARTY

Scattered From Indianapolis This Morning to Four Corners of State in Whirlwind Campaign.

Otis E. Gulley of Danville, Ind., Republican candidate for secretary of State and a committee of party workers were here today consulting with local politicians on the prospects of the coming campaign. They were here all day as the guests of Verne Norris, county chairman. They spent their time visiting the leading party workers over the city and discussing conditions for the campaign which was virtually opened today by the scattering of Republican workers to the four corners of the State to get in connection with the county chairmen.

The committee here today, which has been in close touch with politics all over the State said that everything pointed to a sweeping Republican victory this fall. They said that the Republicans down to every township and city were all in unison on the subject—the election of the Republican ticket. They said that the cohorts of the Republican party were well organized and ready for battle, but that the present plan of visiting all of the counties in the State was to make the organization more perfect and to bring about a closer relationship and feeling among the politicians of the State.

The committee here today was high in its praise of State Chairman Lee. They said that he had been conducting the preparations for the campaign in a business like manner. They said that he had not overlooked a detail and had been arranging for the coming struggle like an old campaigner. The politicians all over the State are more than pleased with the work of Chairman Lee and believe that he will lead the party to victory.

Nearly three score of well known Republican politicians scattered out from Indianapolis this morning to all corners of the State to open a whirlwind series of organization meetings under the direction of and planned by Mr. Lee. Within the present week meetings will be held in the ninety-two counties of the State. Chairman Lee has called to his assistance many prominent Republicans, including former State chairmen, congressional candidates and candidates to State offices. The party here today will visit Shelbyville tomorrow.

The schedules have been arranged so that there will be three or four men at each county meeting. Chairman Lee hopes to reach hundreds of the party workers this week and to infuse them with the "get busy" idea. The representatives of the State organization will devote themselves to organization talk, saying nothing whatever regarding campaign issues. They will dwell on the necessity for a good, close organization to get out the vote and for the taking of the sixty and thirty day polls.

This is the first time an effort has been made to have ninety-two organization meetings within one week and the result is awaited with interest. The launching of this program probably will be regarded as the real opening of the organization and of the campaign.

Mrs. L. T. Turpin and nephew Paul Sandusky of Hartford City are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Spradling.

Two million acres in South Wales have been reclaimed by irrigation.

FIRST DAY TURNS OUT BANNER ONE

Although Weather Conditions Were Unfavorable Large Crowds Gathered at Chautauqua Sunday.

2,500 PEOPLE OUT LAST NIGHT

Tomorrow Night Offers One of Best Programs of Week—Prof. Lindley Tonight.

TONIGHT.
7:30 Musical Prelude—Parland-Newhall Co.
8:00 Lecture, "The Psychology of Advertising"—Prof. E. T. Lindley.
TUESDAY.
2:30 Musical Prelude—The Fisher-Shipp Co.
3:00 Lecture Talk, "Popular Psychology"—Prof. Lindley.
3:30 Lecture Talk, "Domestic Science"—Prof. Calvin.
7:30 Musical Prelude—The Fisher-Shipp Co.
8:00 Lecture, "Dead Lions"—Lincoln McConnell.

Sunday, the first day of the seventh annual Rush county chautauqua was a banner one for a beginner, which predicts unprecedented success for the assembly this season. The crowd was small for a Sunday afternoon crowd, due to the threatening weather, but at night an immense throng of people gathered although the weather conditions were anything but pleasant. It is estimated that twenty-five hundred people heard the evening program and enjoyed it to the superlative degree of enjoyment.

Tonight offers a lecture which has the reputation of not only being instructive but entertaining. Prof. E. T. Lindley, head of the department of philosophy in Indiana University, will talk on "The Psychology of Advertising." It is said that the talk especially appeals to business men and was prepared especially for their benefit. Prof. Lindley has gained a wide reputation in Indianapolis and all over the State with that one lecture alone which he has delivered before many merchants' associations.

If Lincoln J. McConnell of Kansas City does not draw the banner crowd so far tomorrow night the chautauqua management will be badly disappointed as he is already well and favorably known here. He held an audience of several hundred men here one Sunday afternoon last winter, for over three hours and those men all confess now that they never spent three hours more heaped up full of real enjoyment. Mr. McConnell has a personality that is hard to excel, and an attractive manner on the platform, which wins for him many friends. He lectures tomorrow night on the subject "Dead Lions."

The Fisher-Shipp Concert company will come tomorrow for a three days' engagement. They are heralded as a musical organization of excellent merits with a greatly varied program. Every member of the company is an artist and a soloist of ability and the chautauqua management is looking forward to three days of pleasure for the audiences to be gained from their concerts.

The Parland-Newhall musical company which will end its two days' engagement tonight, has met with universal satisfaction. Their quartet work was much appreciated as was their solo work, but the big feature of their diversified program is the bell ringing quartet. It is an innovation on the local program and met with rounds of applause from the audience last night, when it was first given. The bell ringers are experts in their profession and accomplish seemingly impossible things. Their brass horn quartet was the occasion for much applause yesterday. They will close their engagement by giving the musical prelude tonight.

An innovation in the local assembly, a week's course of lectures, one every afternoon, was started this afternoon. Prof. Henrietta Willard Calvin of Purdue University, gave the first of a series of six this afternoon on "Domestic Science." Housewives were attracted by the course, which promises to be one of the most popular features of the assembly. The first of the series of six lectures on the various phases of popular psychology was given this afternoon by Prof. Lindley.

INJURY MAY BE SERIOUS

St. Paul Youth, Hit by Car, Causes Physicians Concern.

The case of John Phillippi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Phillippi of St. Paul, is giving the attending physician considerable cause for alarm, says the Shelbyville Democrat. Young Phillippi was struck by a traction car Wednesday evening and sustained a bad injury to his skull. Since that time he has been in a comatose condition and it is believed that his injuries may prove more serious than was at first supposed.

HAD VERY NARROW ESCAPE IN AUTO

Rear Axle of George Reeve's Touring Car, Carrying Party to Milroy, Broke.

RESULTS WERE FORTUNATE

An automobile party, composed of Ferd Strickler of Franklin, Jesse Hughes of Greenfield, Denning Havens and the Misses Hazel Lytle, Marie Crosby and Henrietta Coleman, all of this city, had an accident yesterday in George Reeve's touring car, which might have resulted seriously had the machine been going at a greater rate of speed. Joshua Brown was acting as chauffeur of Mr. Reeve's Cadillac 30, and the party which he was driving had reached Milroy safely. While going through the streets of Milroy at the rate of fifteen miles an hour the rear axle broke. Immediately after the car was stopped the occupants got out and it was but a few seconds until the wheel of the machine came off. If the machine had been going at a greater rate of speed it would have been impossible to have stopped the "boat" before the wheel came off. The entire motoring party considers themselves very fortunate in the results of the accident.

IS HURT BY AUTO CRANK

St. Paul Physician Received Broken Bones in Accident.

Dr. C. W. Pagel of St. Paul met with a bad mishap one day last week when the crank on his automobile "kicked back" and injured his hand. The hand is badly swollen and the physician believes that some bones are broken. He was attempting to crank his machine when the accident occurred.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy with showers tonight or Tuesday morning, followed by fair.

GAVE ASSEMBLY A BIG IMPETUS

Dr. L. G. Herbert Entertained Audiences at Chautauqua Yesterday With Two Popular Lectures.

FOOT BALL GAME, A FEATURE

With a Healthy, Optimistic View of Life, a Touch of Pathos and Humor, he Pleased.

PUNGENT SAYINGS.

By Dr. L. G. Herbert.
I believe that the statesmen of today are pure and are becoming purer all the time.
There is a new vision of religion in this age, which does away with all creeds and forms and hews to no line.
I would rather think and not know than know and not think.
I am a churchman, but I believe that the church has got away from the young people instead of the young people getting away from the church.

In ten years from now I do not believe that any gambler can boss a political party of this fair State.

Every minister has two or three sisters whose obituaries he would gladly write.

The independent voter is not a friend of himself and his people, but he is a friend of his party.

It is not the purpose of the village choir to sing artistically. All they need to do is to make the noise to let the people know that there is something going on.

I would rather have the "I think" of any scholar of this age than the "I know" of any demagogue who ever lived.

George B. Cox is a dead one in Ohio. You will do the same thing to Taggart in this State, will you not?

I was a pasture once. Notice the distinction between the two words, pasture and pastor. I was the food and nourishment for the pigs and cattle and other quadrupeds which belonged to my flock.

It's a disgrace for all of you women to wear those rats in your hair. Let's have a big bonfire and slaughter them all.

While I and those two liars who were neighbors of mine over in Ohio, were swapping stories, the recording angel was up in one of those theological "cemetery."

Brimful of enthusiasm, optimism sticking out and overflowing and seeing a new vision of things to come in this glorious twentieth century, Dr. L. G. Herbert of Ohio gave two lectures at the first day's session of the seventh annual chautauqua yesterday which were a fitting beginning to what will no doubt be the most successful assembly ever held in this city. Dr. Herbert spoke new things, he had a sense of humor that did not fail to appeal and a touch of pathos which occasionally tugged at the heart strings. Always on the alert for the welfare of his audience the twice-lecturer of yesterday, never failed to mix his common sense and his fun with the good taste of a royal chef. If he read in the faces of his audience that the time was growing heavy on their hands, he was out with a good story, any one of which would take the prize at the sittings of any Ananias club which ever existed.

Dr. Herbert is an optimist, a man of affairs, a man of the twentieth century.

THE CAMPAIGN IN THE ELEVENTH KENTUCKY

Mountaineers Rallying to Support of Caleb Powers.

Louisville, Aug. 8.—Unless the Democrats of the Eleventh congressional district, the stronghold of the Republican party in Kentucky, can elect their representative to congress this fall, the probabilities now are that Caleb Powers, who was tried three times on the charge of complicity in the murder of Governor William Goebel on the streets of Frankfort, Jan. 31, 1900, will be the next congressman from the Eleventh. Since the meeting of the state central Republican committee in Louisville, Powers and his cohorts seem to have had the best of the campaign over D. C. Edwards, present congressman from the Eleventh, and will probably receive the nomination.

Letters written by Powers while in prison have been published and his every act has been brought before the public, but the mountaineers seem to regard him as a hero and Edwards has lost considerable ground.

FORMER HOOSIERS

Enoch Kendall and Family, Murdered in California, Once Lived in Indiana.

Greensburg, Ind., Aug. 8.—Enoch Kendall, his wife and son Thomas, who were murdered in their canyon home on a lonely ranch near Santa Rosa, Cal., last week, were former residents of this city. The family came here from Harrison county, Kentucky, and after a few weeks the husband left for the west. The wife remained and for a season worked in the dressmaking establishment of S. P. Minear & Co., making her home with Mrs. Alex Porter. Mrs. Kendall was a cousin of Mrs. Josephine Mullican of Greensburg. Two brothers survive the slain man, William and Patrick, now living in Cynthiana, Ky., and who are said to be the wealthiest residents of Harrison county.

Knights Templar Take Chicago. Chicago, Aug. 8.—With all the splendor and pageantry of a conquering army the hosts of the Knights Templar continue to arrive in Chicago. Twenty-five thousand knights will participate in the grand parade and review which will be held tomorrow. More than 200,000 Knights Templar and their ladies will be entertained during the conclave, and the total number of visitors to Chicago will swell the city's population by half a million.

Shot in the Back.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 8.—Henry Martin, clerk of the Rock Creek Baptist church in Whitley county, was killed there, being shot in the back as the result of a business dispute, it is said. The church is the one in which the Rev. Isaac Vanover and the Rev. Isaac Perry recently fought during an ecclesiastical trial, Vanover being killed.

Royal Opposition Ceases.

Paris, Aug. 8.—A dispatch from Rome to the Republique Francais says that an official announcement of the betrothal of Katherine Elkins and the Duke of Abruzzi is only a matter of a few weeks. The correspondent asserts that the opposition to the marriage from the royal family has ceased.

Indiana Knights Do Well.

Milwaukee, Aug. 8.—Indiana swept the boards in the competitive drills in the Pythian encampment, taking three prizes in Class A, all that were offered; one of the three prizes in Class B, and first of the three prizes in Class C. Indiana gets $2,650 of the total prize money of $4,000.

Goshen People Alarmed.

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 8.—The many burglaries in Goshen in the last three weeks have alarmed the citizens, and the authorities have been urged to bring outside men to capture the thieves.

How New Castle Got Motor Co.

After all is said and done, Masonry is behind the location of the Universal Motor company in New Castle, says the New Castle Courier. Had it not been for Masonry it is doubtful if New Castle would have ever heard of such a thing as a Universal Motor truck only in a commercial way. W. H. Hostetter and Chas. N. Mikels, both of whom are Masons, had a slight acquaintance. They met in the lobby of the Dennison hotel more than a year ago. The motor, which bids fair to revolutionize things, was a matter discussed by the two men.

Nothing happened at that time, but the New Castle man was so favorably impressed with the idea that he began communicating with men connected with the development of the truck, with Hostetter and with electrical engineers. Upon investigation, he found that the motor was all and even more than had been claimed for it. He then interested several local men in the proposition being offered by Hostetter.

But that was some long months ago. Hostetter went back to Denver. It was determined then that the company would locate at some eastern point. The Hostetter came to Indiana, visited a number of cities and then went to Detroit. Mikels joined them and returned to New Castle. In the meantime, the motor had been developed and a working model built. Mikels saw it and telegraphed the Hostetter boys to come from Detroit to New Castle. W. R. Hostetter did so, but not with the idea of locating here. That thought had never entered his head or Mikels' either. It was a stock-selling mission that he came on.

That was last April. T. B. Millikan looked the motor over and was impressed with what he saw. Mr. Hostetter casually mentioned the fact that the company was seeking a new location and would probably select some Indiana city. Millikan immediately suggested New Castle and mentioned the Safety Shredder buildings as a probable foundation for a big manufacturing concern. All parties fell in with the suggestion. Conference and meetings were held. Then came the announcement that New Castle could get this factory and things began to happen and turned out as they usually do—New Castle got another factory.

Bad Teeth in Children

More than 79 per cent of the pupils of the public schools suffer from decaying or defective teeth.

This has been determined by the recent investigation of the Cleveland board of health at the instance of Dr. Martin Freidrich, health officer. The teeth of every school child in the city were examined by the ward physicians.

Drawing the conclusion that defective teeth are responsible for many mental, moral and physical diseases of school children, Dr. Freidrich has declared himself in favor of free dental clinics in all the schools. He said that the astounding results of the examinations showed conclusively that prompt action should be taken to remedy conditions.

"The report of the twenty-six ward physicians that 79 per cent of school children suffer from defects of teeth, has convinced me that the time has come to act," said Dr. Freidrich.

"If the examination had been conducted by dentists instead of physicians, I am sure the percentage would have been much greater. I am in favor of establishing a dental clinic in every school to examine and treat the teeth of pupils and to teach the proper care of them.

"A child with the tooth ache cannot study," he said, "and it is cruel to expect him to. Moreover, a boy or girl with a bad tooth is sure to develop a bad temper, and that is sure to mean bad morals.

"Then bad teeth are one of the most frequent causes of indigestion. Indigestion is fruitful of disease and often ends in complete physical breakdown. Mental and nervous diseases often are directly the cause of bad teeth.

"Dental inspection in the schools should be carried on side by side with medical inspection. Not only should defective and decayed teeth be remedied, but the pupils should be taught the care and use of their teeth.

COUNTY NEWS.

Glenwood.

Rev. John T. Scull preaches at the M. E. church in the absence of the Rev. Clyde S. Black and Mrs. Black at Pennsylvania. Bro. Scull preached at 10:45 o'clock in the morning, and at 7:30 in the evening. His subject in the morning was "Faith." He gave St. Paul's definition of faith, "Now faith is the substance of things not seen and the evidence of things not seen." Not very many greeted the once most popular preacher in Connersville district. It was because of a little rain that so many stayed at home. At the evening service a great many more were in attendance.

Standish Stevens, son of Henry Stevens, at one time resident of this place, being station agent at the time the safe was blown open and several hundred dollars taken, returned to Glenwood for some encouragement. It is supposed he gained it at the pharmacy.

Misses Ruth Harwell and Gladys Mapes called on the Misses Geises one afternoon last week.

Judge Will Sparks was fencing in our vicinity recently. Everyone thinks very highly of him. His fences were well built.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rees are taking their vacation at the hotel. Mr. Rees is a clothing salesman in an Indianapolis clothing house.

Marcus Kendall will have done quite a lot of ditching this fall. This will add very much to the value of his farm.

It seems that too many of us are after the almighty dollar, not caring very much about our souls.

The stone road is progressing slowly, but surely. They are building about 100 feet per day.

Connor & Greenwood of Connersville received the contract of building the sidewalks on Durbin street and the cross streets at 10 1/9 cents per squarefoot. After the completion of this contract, Glenwood will then have more cement sidewalk in than any other town of its population.

The State meeting will take place here Tuesday, August 9, and on Monday night three degree staffs will contest for the prize which will be a silver cup. The old town will be running over with patriotism. The Ladies Aid will feed them.

Peter N. Wagoner will remove to Shelbyville with his family. Having a position there he thought it best to move.

Several of our citizens took advantage of the excursion to Niagara Falls and took their annual vacation.

Clifton Wines will go to California in the near future. He has an uncle living there, who has a position for him.

We have several young men who are saving every penny. This looks like something will take place some of these times ere long.

A party of ten couples from Connersville took supper at the Glenwood Inn the other evening.

T. C. Rees and his agents will meet the president of the J. B. Colt Acetylene Gas company at the Claypool in Indianapolis on the 8th and 9th inst.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures.

"Favorite Prescription" is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice.

Some of the numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Example for Hartford City

No wonder Hartford City people cannot get together on any sort of a factory proposition or anything else, says the New Castle Courier. The newspapers are all pulling in opposite directions, and cutting each other's throat editorially. Those who are not sore at the newspapers are sore at some other fellow and it is doubtful if more than a half dozen people in town haven't got some sort of a grudge on.

If Hartford City people would quit their fighting and get together and pull for the town the chances are that it would soon be what it was in days gone by. There was a time when Hartford City was the prize town of the Gas Belt, but she's lost out and her prestige and reputation are gone, all through the petty controversies, personalities and dirty mud-slinging.

The thing for the three newspapers in Hartford City to do is to cut out the back-biting, get busy, start a factory proposition and then work like Sam Hill for it. But as long as Ed Cox, Henry Geisler and Charley Reeves continue their scraping, the ex-prize of the Gas Belt will suffer the consequences.

Here in New Castle everybody is too busy to start a newspaper fight or a fight of any other kind. Everybody is boosting. It's the only thing that counts and New Castle today stands the peer of any of the little cities of Indiana, because her citizens are loyal true, blue folks, who believe in eternally boosting for the town and locating factories. New Castle just located one great big concern and the chances are that another factory proposition will be sprung at the "Boosters' Day" celebration.

Hartford City editors especially are invited to take in this event and see how things are done in New Castle.

SENATOR WESLEY L. JONES

One of the Investigators of Senator Gore's Bribery Charges.

RAILROADS SAY THEY ARE BEING EATEN UP

Must Raise Rates Or Go Out of Business, They Say.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Four committees of western railways are drawing up for the doubting government a memorial which, they say, will bring the question of government ownership of the nation's railroads squarely before the federal authorities and the people.

Western railways, according to officials, will join in preparing an ultimatum to the interstate commerce commission upon which their existence must stand or fall. This memorial will be ready Aug. 22 or 23. It will be presented in Chicago to an examiner delegated by the interstate commerce commission. It will say that increasing expense of operation demands proportionate increases in freight rates.

"If we cannot demonstrate to the interstate commerce commission," say the traffic officials, "that an increase in revenue is imperative—if the growth in expenses is to exceed the growth in income from traffic, it is the end. I know of no resource we shall not have exhausted. My road may as well, if no remedy is offered, prepare for delivery into the hands of a government manager and quit a struggling position in the business world."

The decision by the interstate commerce commission will be given during the fall, after they have considered the pleadings and figures submitted in the memorial. Shippers have advanced an estimate that the net earnings of all roads in the country during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, have increased $94,000,000 over the preceding year. Railroad men assert that a large proportion of this increase has been eaten by increases in expenses.

CHANGED HIS MIND

This Man Willing to Go to Pen For $2,000 a Year.

Laporte, Ind., Aug. 8.—Anxious to save the $10,000 cash which his brother and sister put up in order that he might enjoy his liberty on bail from prison, John A. Adams, now living in New York, has written State's Attorney Kuhn of Ingham county, Michigan, offering to give himself up to serve a five-year sentence in Marquette prison if the forfeit of his bail can be set aside. Adams was tried early last spring on a charge of enticing Rosa Renz, aged eighteen, from Cleveland to Michigan by means of a fake marriage. It developed at the trial that Adams had given false testimony, and he was rearrested and convicted of perjury.

He was sentenced to serve five years and after he reached prison appealed his case to the supreme court and was released on $10,000 bail.

Indians Will Testify.

McAlester, Okla., Aug. 8.—The congressional committee investigating Senator Gore's charges of an attempt to bribe him, has arrived here. The session will probably continue three days. A number of prominent Indians are in the city and some of these will be called as witnesses.

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

Indiana Attorney General Trying to Define It.

FORMER OFFICIALS ANXIOUS

Discovery of Alleged Shortages in the Accounts of a Number of County and Township Officers Whose Terms Expired in 1904 Raises the Question as to Whether They Come in Under the Six-Year Statute of Limitations.

Indianapolis, Aug. 8.—Is a public official, whose term expired in 1904 and whose balance is found short for one or more of the years of his administration, liable to prosecution for the total shortage at the end of his term, or the discrepancy due only to the last year's business?

Attorney General James Bingham is now engaged in grappling with this question, which was referred to him by the state board of accounts. The statute of limitations bars the recovery of any funds due to malfeasance, misfeasance or nonfeasance committed six or more years prior to the time when suit for collection is filed. It is thought possible by the state board of accounts that a public official whose term expired in 1904 is amenable to prosecution for discrepancies during his entire term, since his books were subject to a final accounting at the close of his term.

George A. Ritter, deputy examiner for the state board of accounts, in speaking of the question, said it would be difficult to estimate the amount of money involved in this question. All of the township and county officers who served from 1900 to 1904 and who are found to have been short in their accounts when they relinquished office, will be subject to prosecution if the attorney general answers the question proposed to him in the affirmative and his opinion is sustained in the courts. Suits probably will be filed in the event of an affirmative answer.

ADVERSE REPORT

Another Indiana Township Trustee Alleged to Be Short in Accounts.

Indianapolis, Aug. 8.—Including principal and interest for a period of more than five years, Field Examiners Alexander and Dunn, who recently completed an inspection of the books of C. J. Neff, trustee of Harrison township, Blackford county, from 1900 to 1904, have charged $9,272.49 against that official. In addition to this amount it is set out in the report that Mr. Neff's bondsmen assert they paid $2,100 into the depository in the fall of 1904 in order that the township might pay the teachers' salaries. In 1905 an auditing committee is said to have found a shortage of $645 which the bondsmen paid to Mr. Neff's successor, W. H. Thornburg. These amounts are not included in the findings of the state examiners.

He Left a Note.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 8.—Despondent over his blindness, Mike McFadden, sixty-three years old, committed suicide by throwing himself into the pond of the Superior mine, near Linton. His body was found by accident, and a search of his house revealed a note, in which he explained the cause of his action. He had been married, but was separated from his wife.

Boy Dragged to Death by Cow.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 8.—Thaddeus, nine-year-old son of Ernest Warner, three miles north of here, was killed when a cow he was leading from pasture ran away and dragged the little fellow for several hundred yards. He had fastened about his waist a chain that tethered the cow. His skull was fractured and his body mangled.

Brought Home For Burial.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 8.—The remains of Arthur Goeglein, who was shot down a week ago while in the performance of his duties as night marshal at Telluride, Col., arrived in Fort Wayne and were immediately removed to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Goeglein. The burial occurred Sunday.

Stock Solicitation Begun.

Washington, Ind., Aug. 8.—Delegates returning from the state meeting of the Indiana Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Society bring news that the convention made provision for building a state elevator in this city. Committees immediately will begin the work of soliciting stock.

Railway Workman Crushed to Death.

Princeton, Ind., Aug. 8.—Nikola Meelis, twenty-three years old, an Austrian, working on the construction of the Big Four line, was caught under a dump car near Cynthiana and instantly killed, the heavy dump crushing him.

They Gave Up the Chase.

London, Ky., Aug. 8.—Throwing bloodhounds from their trail, presumably by the use of cayenne pepper, three men who escaped from the jail here entered a dense woods near Woodbine, and Captain Mulligan of the Lexington police force and a posse gave up the chase and returned to London.

ROOSEVELT READY WITH HIS REASONS

Can Tell Indiana Voters of Good Work Done by Beveridge.

TEDDY'S RIGHT HAND MAN

Indiana Statesman Helped Advance
Roosevelt Policies Very Effectively.

The Chicago Tribune, commenting on the coming of Col. Theodore Roosevelt to Indiana, to speak for the Republican ticket, details the relations between Senator Beveridge of Indiana and the former president, and concludes that Col. Roosevelt can give very good reasons why Senator Beveridge ought to be re-elected because of the good work the Indiana senior senator has done for the cause of the people. Here is the Tribune's article.

"In their own interest as well as that of the nation the people of Indiana should return Albert J. Beveridge to the United States Senate." This declaration will be made by former President Theodore Roosevelt in a speech he has promised to deliver in the Hoosier state. It will be an honest expression based upon intimate knowledge of Senator Beveridge's course which Col. Roosevelt had while in the White House.

"It will be an endorsement given to Beveridge less as the insurgent than as the man and Republican. It will be the return of the former President for the loyal, zealous way in which the Indian aided him in getting through legislation recognized as essential to the public interests.

"Mr. Beveridge will be given credit for vital assistance in:

"Molding the Philippine legislative policy, which has produced peace and order with civil government in the archipelago.

"The removal of the tariff wall between the United States and Porto Rico.

"Statehood for Oklahoma and Indian Territory, as against a proposal to organize two states.

"Enactment of the Federal meat inspection law.

"Enactment of the pure food laws.

"Development of reforms in connection with child labor.

"Protection against spoliation of the coal lands of Alaska.

"These are the things done for which it is possible specifically to give credit to the Indiana senator.

"There are many other laws enacted and policies enforced which he has influenced during the eleven years he has been in the Upper House of Congress. Take, for example, the debates in connection with the Aldrich tariff law.

"There is no doubt that the activity of Mr. Beveridge and the colleagues who fought with him caused a reasonable reduction in some of the schedules below that which had been contemplated, and also enabled the Indian to obtain an amendment to the act which forced the Tobacco Trust to pay millions annually to the government that under the laws of 1902 it had been collecting and keeping for itself.

"Similarly their attitude was responsible for substantial and valuable modifications of the railroad rates bill which was passed during the last session of Congress. It is true, likewise, that statehood for Arizona and New Mexico could not have been achieved had Mr. Beveridge objected. He occupies the post of chairman of the Committee on Territories and in that position easily could have prevented a statehood bill from being reported to the Senate.

"These several matters are recalled at this time both because it is desirable from a public point of view to call attention of Indiana to Mr. Beveridge's record as well as to the fact that the points are being considered by the former President in connection with the speech he will deliver in Indiana."

Can He "Come Back"?

But Mr. Bryan has heard other political obituaries and he has been buried before. Also he has proved that he can come back. The peerless loser is counted a dead one at the present time but it is safe to guess that when the time comes for another national convention he will be chief advisor as to candidate and platform.—Lafayette Journal.

Yes, indeed. He may even be the candidate. Stranger things have happened. But of course this result means he must whip the bosses again next November.

Farmers Pay Taxes.

Grant county farmers, having sold their wheat, are paying their taxes. This condition, brought about by a bumper crop and $1 wheat, has caused an unusual summer rush at the county treasurer's office. It is reported the farmers are going to the tax-paying with grins on their faces. And they are not talking in favor of the Democratic movement to reduce prices on farm products. They generally agree there is a strong leaning towards the Republican party in the

There are many Democrats who will resent the invasion of Indiana by Joe Bailey of Texas.

When Sarah Bernhardt comes to this country in the coming fall to make another "farewell tour" she may be greeted as a great grandmother, as the recent birth of a daughter to the daughter of Maurice Bernhardt gives her that title.

From the tenor of late dispatches from London it is quite evident that the influences set in motion by Theodore Roosevelt when he was in England will eventually, and at no very distant day, result in the British government granting to Ireland home rule and a parliament of its own.

The members of a W. C. T. U. out west have sent a formal request to Mrs. Alice Longworth, eldest daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, asking her to desist from the cigarette habit. It might be well for these worthy ladies to see that they have no beams in their own eyes before they assume to extract the trifling mote of cigarette smoking from the eye of an unoffending sister, or they might do a little good work in their own homes trying to keep their husbands and sons from indulging in that nasty tobacco chewing habit.

The men who do a town more harm than good may be classed as follows: First, those who oppose improvements; second, those who run it down to strangers; third, those who never advertise their business; fourth, those who distrust public-spirited men; fifth, those who show no hospitality to anyone; sixth, those who hate to see others make money; seventh, those who oppose every movement that does not originate with themselves; eighth, those who put on long faces when a stranger speaks of locating in their town; ninth, those who oppose every public enterprise, which does not appear of personal benefit to themselves.

The appointment of a tariff board authorized at the last session of congress is the starting of a business-like administration of what should always have been a matter of business. The appointment of such a commission was supported by the Republican members of both congress and Senate and is one of the largest pieces of legislation among the many which congress inaugurated. The idea of a tariff commission is in line with the policy of the Republican party which has always stood for a protective tariff covering the difference in the cost of production here and abroad. To equalize conditions and to give American manufactures the opportunity to develop as none have ever developed in the history of the world has been the purpose of the tariff and that policy can be pursued in a more businesslike method than ever before under the tariff commission idea. The Republican party is to be congratulated that it has inaugurated this great movement in addition to the long list it already has to its credit in constructive legislation.

Democratic boss leadership in Indiana has proved its unfitness in many ways. In no way has this absolute unfitness for power been more clearly shown than in the secret ballot trickery which disgraced the last Indiana legislative caucus of Democrats.

The secret ballot scheme was worthy of men like Tom Taggart and Senator Shively. It was a political trick on its face. Obviously it was meant to cover fraud and wrong. Events proved that it was the device of double-crossers and the game of bosses who sought to thwart the will of the Democratic party rank and file. John W. Kern, victim in chief of the crooked play, has set all this out in his own words, and with all the force he could give it.

The bosses still lead. Tom Taggart is the big control. The men who played fast and loose with the Democratic legislative caucus of 1909, are in charge today, and will control the Democratic legislative caucus of 1911.

Can these men be trusted today further than they could be trusted in 1909? Is there anything in their past conduct to indicate that they are true to the rank and file at this time?

Gowdy Hits Spot.

Mr. Gowdy, none of his political acumen lost through his recent devotion to farm life, puts his finger at once on the weak spot in the Democratic armor, says the Indianapolis Star. The plan of that party is to make an issue of the high cost of living, but do Democratic farmers want the prices of their produce reduced, asks the shrewd and practical farmer-citizen who once guided the fortunes of Indiana Republicans so successfully. Do they wish to sell their hogs for 3 cents a pound instead of 9 or ten cents, their corn for 17 cents instead of 68 cents, their wheat for 48 cents a bushel instead of $1, and so on down the line?

There is but one answer to these questions. Farmers, irrespective of party, want no return to the old prices for their products that prevailed when wages were low. They are enjoying a prosperity now such as they have never had before, and they wish it to continue. Any proposed change of conditions that will tend to lessen this prosperity by lowering prices they will oppose as one man. The "good times" are not confined to farmers, but are shared by all classes. What affects one class affects all, and a crusade made against food producers will tend to reduce the wages of workers. It is to the interest of all lines of business that farmers should continue to be prosperous. As a campaign issue the high cost of living has explosive qualities.

Contractor Fry of Greenfield was once in somewhat of a "stew" over the local brick street contract but he seems to have simmered down a little since he did not file that suit.

Mr. Bryan will be here Friday. So will his county option plank which Nebraska saw fit to turn down the other day by exercising its state option.

Wright Brothers sold a flying machine for fifty thousand dollars the other day. Not that it makes any difference to Rushville but it might make a financial flurry in the upper strata of air.

Even after a woman aviator was killed over in Europe, more women flocked to the aircrafts for a ride. Can you wonder that there are women suffragettes?

Politics makes queer bed fellows. True enough and so do automobile accidents, when the chauffeur sleeps with his millionaire boss out in some desolate farm house.

Senator Gore of Oklahoma is blind yet he can see far enough ahead to make some rather startling charges.

EX-VICE PRESIDENT FAIRBANKS

Noted Hoosier Statesman and Diplomat Will Aid Party in the Coming Election.

Farmers are Using the Automobile

Whether to retire old Dobbin, who has served so long and faithfully, and buy an automobile is just now an important question with many farmers. The horse was the first advance over the ordinary means of locomotion when speed and endurance were required. He has been man's main dependence on land from the dawn of civilization down to the present time. The fabled Mercury with his winged feet was at once a dream and a swifter means of travel for business and pleasure. The Centaur—a mythical being, half horse, and half man—was the barbarian's conception of the horseman of other tribes more advanced than his own. Other animals, such as the llama, the camel, and the burro, were domesticated by primitive peoples but they could not develop speed and have remained beasts of burden.

The advent of steam introduced new means of location, with an increase of speed, but its sphere of action was limited to certain rigid lines of steel and there was no freedom of movement coincident with the taste and whim of the individual in his desire to travel for pleasure or profit.

Modern invention came to the aid of man and the evolution of mechanical contrivances to assist the individual and to add to ones speed as a means of independent locomotion, has made steady progress. First the velocipede, and later the bicycle; to the motorcycle; then the somewhat crude steam buggy to the final gas motor auto with all its modern improvements. Every new invention out of the ordinary has to fight for a place in the world, to overcome initial imperfections and vanish prejudice and opposition of mankind.

So it is with the automobile. At first they were intended to be used for independent locomotion only, but sportsmen saw in them a chance for a new diversion. Instead of using them for legitimate purpose, they began to call for racing machines and devoted their attention to speed contests. These contests were carried to extreme a few years ago but the use for automobiles for such purposes is beginning to decline in interest. Laws regulating the speed of those who are inclined to race on the public highway began to discourage the racing instinct and we now have machines that are suitable for nearly all of the ordinary purposes for which vehicles are intended. At first the standard cars were considered luxuries and were only used by people who had plenty of money and leisure. Gradually the automobile descended from the luxury class to that of a convenience and in many cases a necessity. To a man living in town who has no use for any kind of a vehicle except to ride around for pleasure, an automobile is still a luxury. To those who have occasion to make extended trips for business purposes automobiles have become a necessity. To the farmer who is able to afford one, an automobile is both a convenience and a necessity and a necessity rather than a luxury.

It is not at all strange that when automobiles first came into general use that farmers should have looked upon their introduction and use with considerable prejudice. In the first place their horses were frightened by the new apparition which met or flitted by them. Accidents and breakages were common occurrences and the new vehicles were much in disfavor. The haughtiness and carelessness of the first automobilists from town strengthened the prejudice for a while and an instance is known where a new road law was defeated in a State legislature because of a speech made by a farmer member. He said he knew it was a scheme to get the roads improved at the farmers' expense so that the town automobile fellows could whiz by, throw dust in the farmers' faces and scare their horses to death.

There was a time when hogs were selling at a few cents per pound. But they have doubled in price and now those who were prejudiced against auto cars are looking upon them with favor and occasionally buy one so that they can whiz by and throw dust in the eyes of the other fellows, figuratively speaking. They are taking interest in the movement for good roads and conditions are rapidly changing.

All prejudice against the machines is disappearing, horses are getting used to seeing them pass by, prices are becoming reasonable and in the course of time all who are able to afford them will have cars of their own.

The Girl and the Bill

CHAPTER IX.

Number Three Forty-One.

When Orme was aroused by the ringing of his telephone bell the next morning and heard the clerk's voice saying over the wire, "Eight o'clock, sir," it seemed as if he had been asleep but a few minutes.

During breakfast he reviewed the events of the preceding evening. Strange and varied though they had been, his thoughts chiefly turned to the girl herself, and he shaped all his plans with the idea of pleasing her. The work he had set for himself was to get the envelope and deliver it to the girl. This plan involved the finding of the man who had escaped from the tree.

The search was not so nearly blind as it would have been if Orme had not found that folded slip of paper in Maku's pocket. The address, "three forty-one North Parker street," was unquestionably the destination at which Maku had expected to meet friends.

To North Parker street, then, Orme prepared to go. Much as he longed to see the girl again, he was glad that they were not to make this adventure together, for the reputation of North Parker street was unsavory.

Orme found his way readily enough. There was not far to go, and he preferred to walk. But before he reached his destination he remembered that he had promised Alcatraz and Poritolo to meet them at his apartment at ten o'clock.

His obligation to the two South Americans seemed slight, now that the bill had passed from his hands and that he knew the nature of Poritolo's actions. Nevertheless, he was a man of his word, and he hurried back to the Pere Marquette, for the hour was close to ten. He was influenced to some extent by the thought that Poritolo and Alcatraz, on learning how he had been robbed of the bill, might unwittingly give him a further clue.

No one had called for him. He waited till ten minutes past the hour before he concluded that he had fulfilled his part of the bargain with them. Though he did not understand it, he attached no especial significance to their failure to appear.

Once again he went to North Parker street. Three forty-one proved to be a notion shop. Through the window he saw a stout woman reading a newspaper behind the counter. When he entered she laid the paper aside and arose languidly, as though customers were rather a nuisance than a blessing. She was forty, but not fair.

Orme asked to see a set of studs. She drew a box from a show case and spread the assortment before him.

He selected a set and paid her, offering a ten-dollar bill. She turned to a cash register and made change—which included a five-dollar bill.

Orme could hardly believe his eyes. The bill which she placed in his hand bore the written words: "Remember person you pay this to."

He turned it over. In the corner was a familiar set of abbreviations. There was no doubt about it. The bill was the same which had been taken from him, and which he had last seen in the possession of Maku.

What an insistent piece of green paper that marked bill was! It had started him on this remarkable series of adventures. It had introduced excitable little Poritolo and the suave Alcatraz to his apartment. It had made him the victim of the attack by the two Japanese. It had brought the girl into his possession just at the moment to prove that he was on the right track in his search for Maku and the man who had the papers.

The queerest coincidence was that the bill would never have come into his possession at all had it not been for his first meeting with the girl—who at that very time was herself searching for it. The rubbing of his hat against the wheel of her car—on so little thing as that had hinged the events followed.

"This is strange," Orme addressed the woman. "It doesn't hurt it any," said the woman, indifferently. "I know that. But it's a curious thing just the same."

The woman raised her shoulders slightly, and began to put away the stock she had taken out for Orme's benefit.

"Who paid this to you?" persisted Orme. "How should I remember? I can't keep track of all the persons that come in the store during the day."

"But I should think that anything so queer as this—" He saw that he could get nothing from her except by annoying her.

The woman glared. "What you a botherin' about? Why don't you leave well enough alone?"

Orme smiled. "Tell me one thing," he said, "do you know a Japanese that lives hereabouts?"

"Oh," said the woman, "so you're one of the gentlemen he was expectin', eh? Well, it's the front flat, two flights up."

"Thank you," said Orme. He walked out to the street, whence a backward glance showed him the woman again concealed in her newspaper.

At one side of the shop he found the entrance to a flight of stairs which led to the floors above. In the little hallway, just before the narrow ascent began, was a row of electric buttons and names, and under each of them a mail box. "3a" had a card on which was printed:

"Arima, Teacher of Original Kana Jiu-Jitsu."

Should he go boldly up and present himself as a prospective pupil? If Arima were the one who had so effectively thrown him the night before he would certainly remember the man he had thrown and would promptly be on his guard. Also, the woman in the shop had said, "you are one of the gentlemen he was expectin'." Others were coming.

Prudence suggested that he conceal himself in an entry across the street and keep an eye out for the persons who were coming to visit Arima. He assumed that their coming had something to do with the stolen paper. But he had no way of knowing who the athlete's guests would be.

There might be no one among them whom he could recognize. And even if he saw them all go in, how would his own purpose be served by merely watching them? In time, no doubt, they would all come out again, and one of them would have the papers in his possession, and Orme would not know which one.

For all he was aware, some of the guests had already arrived. They might even now be gathering with eager eyes about the unfolded documents. No, Orme realized that his place was not on the sidewalk. By some means he must get where he could discover what was going on in the front flat on the third floor. Standing where he now was there was momentary danger of being discovered by persons who would guess why he was there. Maku might come.

Orme looked to see who lived in "4a," the flat above the Japanese. The card bore the name: "Madam Alla, Clairvoyant and Trance Medium."

"I think I will have my fortune told," muttered Orme, as he pressed Madam Alla's bell and started up the stairs.

At the top of the second flight he looked to the entrance of the front apartment. It had a large square of ground glass, with the name "Arima" in black letters. He continued upward another flight and presently found himself before two blank doors—one at the front and one a little at one side. The side door opened slowly in response to his knock.

Before him stood a blowsy but not altogether unprepossessing woman of middle years. She wore a cheap print gown. A gipsy scarf was thrown over her head and shoulders, and her ears held loop earrings. Her inquiring glance at Orme was not unmixed with suspicion.

"Madam Alla?" inquired Orme.

She nodded and stood aside for him to enter. He passed into a cheap little reception hall which looked out on the street, and then, at her silent direction went through a door at one side and found himself in the medium's sanctum.

The one window gave on a dimly lighted narrow space which apparently had been cut in from the back of the building. Through the dusty glass he could see the railing of a fire-escape platform, and cutting diagonally across the light, part of the stairs led to the ~ Rubbing the back won't cure backache.

A liniment may relieve, but can't cure.

Backache comes from the inside—from the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills get inside—They cure sick kidneys.

Here is Rushville proof that this is so:

Samuel A. Brown, 527 West First street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Doan's Kidney Pills, for I know from personal experience that they live up to the claims made for them. About three years ago I was suddenly taken with an attack of headache and it steadily grew worse. I could hardly raise my foot from the ground and if I stopped it really seemed as if my back was going to break. When someone advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I did so and I was certainly surprised by their promptness in relieving me. In three days I was free from backache and felt better in every way. Since then I have procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store and have seldom been without a supply in the house. Doan's Kidney Pills are worthy of the highest praise."

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

platform above. There was a closed door, which apparently opened into the outer hall. In the room were dirty red hangings, two chairs, a couch, and a small square center table.

Madam Alla had already seated herself at the table and was shuffling a pack of cards. "Fifty-cent reading?" she asked, as he took the chair opposite her.

Orme nodded. His thoughts were on the window and the fire escape, and he hardly heard her monotonous sentences, though he obeyed mechanically her instructions to cut and shuffle.

"You are about to engage in a new business," she was saying. "You will be successful, but there will be some trouble about a dark man. Look out for him. He talks fair, but he means mischief.—There is a woman, too.—This man will try to prejudice her against you." And all the time Orme was saying to himself, "How can I persuade her to let me use the fire escape?"

Suddenly he was conscious that the woman had ceased speaking and was running the cards through her fingers and looking at him searchingly. "You are not listening," she said, as he met her gaze.

He smiled apologetically. "I know—I was preoccupied."

"I can't help you if you don't listen," Orme inferred that she took pride in her work. He sighed, and looked grave. "I am afraid," he said slowly, "that my case is too serious for the cards."

She brightened. "You'd ought to have a trance-reading—two dollars."

"I'd take any kind of reading that would help me, but I'm afraid the situation is too difficult."

"Then why did you come?" Again the look of suspicion.

"I came because you could help me, but not by a reading."

"What do you mean?" Plainly she was frightened. "I don't put people away. That's out of my line. Honest!"

"Do I look as if I wanted anything crooked done?" Orme smiled.

"It's hard to tell what folks want," she muttered. "You're a fly-cop, aren't you?"

"What makes you think that?"

"The way you been sizing things up. You aren't going to do anything, are you? I pay regular for my protection every month—five dollars—and I work hard to get it, too."

Orme hesitated. He had known at the outset that he was of a class different from the ordinary run of her clients. The difference undoubtedly had both puzzled and frightened her. He might disabuse her of the notion that he had anything to do with the police, but her misapprehension was an advantage that he was loath to lose.

Fearing him, she might grant any favor.

"Now, listen to me," he said at last. "I don't mean you any harm, but I want you to answer a few questions."

She eyed him furtively.

"Do you know the man in the flat below?" he demanded.

"Mr. Arima? No. He's a Jap. I see him in the halls sometimes, but I don't do no more than bow, like any neighbor."

"He's noisy, isn't he?"

"Only when he has pupils. But he goes out to do most of his teaching. Is he wanted?"

"Not exactly. Now look here, I believe you're a well-meaning woman. Do you make a good thing out of this business?"

"Fair," She smiled faintly. "I ain't been in Chicago long, and it takes time to work up a good trade. I got a daughter to bring up. She's with friends. She don't know anything about what I do for a living."

"Well," said Orme, "I'm going to give you five dollars toward educating your girl."

He took a bill from his pocketbook and handed it to her. She accepted it with a deprecating glance and a smile that was tinged with pathetic coquetry. Then she looked at it strangely. "What's the writing?" she asked.

Orme started. He had given her the marked five-dollar bill. "I didn't mean to give you that one," he said, taking it from her fingers.

She stared at him. "Is it fony?"

"No—but I want it. Here's another." As he took a fresh bill from his pocketbook he discovered to his surprise that the marked bill, together with the few dollars in change he had received after his purchase in the shop below, was all that he now had left in his pocket. He remembered that he had intended to draw on his funds that morning. His departure from New York had been hurried, and he had come away with little ready cash.

The footprints of Dyspepsia have been directly traced to the Stomach nerves. When these "inside nerves" fail, indigestion and stomach distress must surely result. For this, druggists everywhere are supplying a prescription known as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. First these tiny inside Stomach, Heart, and Kidney nerves fail. Then gas belching. Heart palpitation, or failing Kidneys follow. Don't drug the Stomach, or stimulate the Heart or Kidneys. That is wrong. Strengthen these failing nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative. It is the nerves, not the organs that are calling for help. Within 48 hours after starting the Restorative treatment, you will realize the gain. A test will tell. Sold by Frank E. Wolcott.

No risk, no trouble, if you use CLARK'S PURITY FLOUR.

Get Well First

Don't risk even a penny—until health first returns.

And I mean just exactly that. I mean the one physician who says to the sick "I will put out of my own pocket, pay for your medicine if it fails to bring you help!" And for 20 years Dr. Shoop's medicines have been used and recommended in every city and hamlet in America. They are positively standard in every community—and everywhere. Then why pay the cash, and at your risk, for other untried and uncertain medicines? Thousands upon thousands have in the past successfully used Dr. Shoop's Restorative. When the Stomach nerves, or the Heart or Kidney nerves fail, these sick ones know how quickly Dr. Shoop's Restorative will bring them back to health again. But best of all, they positively take no money risk whatever. They know that when Dr. Shoop's Restorative fails to help, they will pay the drug-gist for that test. And for that test a full 30-day treatment is freely granted. But write me first for an order. This will save delay and disappointment. All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative and Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy, but all are not authorized to give the 30-day test. So drop me a line please—for I have appointed an honest and responsible drug-gist in almost every community to issue my "no money risk" medicine to the sick. Tell me also which book you need. The books below will surely open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. Besides you are perfectly free to consult me just as you would your own physician. My advice and the book below are yours—and without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice. For it is surely my duty to help. So write now, while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

How to Cure Eczema, Pimples, And Dandruff.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for ZEMO, we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, pimples, and dandruff. Yet, we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as ZEMO has given splendid results wherever recommended. Our customers like ZEMO too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

ZEMO effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It does not soil the clothing or linen and can be used freely on infants.

With every purchase, we give a booklet on skin disease explaining in simple words how any person can be cured at home of any form of skin or scalp diseases by this clean, scientific remedy. F. E. Wolcott, Druggist.

MURDER MOTIVE STILL MYSTERY

Cleveland Police Working On Footpad Theory.

SLAYING OF A MILLIONAIRE

When Attorney W. L. Rice Was Shot Down at Approach to His Home the Murderer Left No Clue, and Police Are Baffled by the Case—Theory That Millionaire Was Slain by Business Enemies Exploded.

Cleveland, Aug. 8.—The murder of W. L. Rice, millionaire attorney and clubman, is still a mystery. After working two days and running down many near-clues, the entire police force are baffled. They have no results. The theory that Rice was murdered by business enemies has exploded.

The widow of the murdered man and her four daughters have arrived from their summer home in Massachusetts. Accompanying Mrs. Rice and her children was William Nelson Cromwell, the New York attorney and the eastern associate of Rice.

The theory of murder by footpads is the only one left. But there was no robbery. An envelope filled with bills was left untouched in Rice's inner pocket. His trouser pocket was filled with silver and he wore a watch and jewelry.

The autopsy showed that only one of the two bullets fired at him penetrated the brain. The second glanced off. It was discovered that Rice was struck on the head with some heavy instrument, possibly a blackjack or pistol, and probably knocked down. The coroner expressed a belief that the shots were fired after he was felled by the blow.

Mr. Rice put up a desperate fight for his life. Two clean cuts in the arm of his coat indicated resistance to the attack. A deep cut in the left hand reaching to the bone indicates that he warded off one slash. Probably while he was doing this he was knocked down. The murderers evidently planned the crime with cunning. The spot selected was midway in a half-mile stretch of open boulevard directly under a light, where any person desiring to reach the populated section of the heights along Overlook road would have to cross. Back of the scene was a cluster of trees and shrubs where concealment was afforded. On either side for a quarter of a mile east or west, any approaching auto could easily be seen.

Mr. Rice on several occasions had trouble with Italians from the settlement known as Little Italy, lying at the base of the hill below Overlook Road, where he lived.

FACTS LEAKING OUT

Coroner's Office Gives Further Details of Stewart Tragedy.

Pittsburg, Aug. 8.—The police say that Dr. G. M. Stewart, the young society doctor who was killed by Edna Wallace, of the underworld, had been dead some hours before the woman killed herself. They think Miss Wallace killed Stewart first and remained with his body in the Stewart house for eighteen or twenty hours, then disrobing and lying down beside his lifeless body, blew her own brains out. A detail supplied from the coroner's office is that the woman washed and prepared the body of her lover for burial after she had killed him. It is now known that the body of Dr. Stewart had been carefully washed and dressed in new underwear after death and a sheet wrapped tightly about him.

After committing the murder, which was preceded by a fearful struggle in the room, in which furniture was broken, the woman left the house and mailed her will to her attorney, and also wrote some checks in payment of bills.

It is said that Dr. Stewart, on the eve of his wedding to a beautiful Virginia girl, had speculated heavily and lost much money. The Wallace woman, in ignorance of his coming marriage, had loaned him money at times, in amounts of $500, as she thought, to pay his debts. She was told that Stewart was using the money to prepare for his wedding with another woman, and this, it is thought, induced her to kill him.

The jewels of Miss Wallace, worth many thousands of dollars, which disappeared some time before her death, have been returned mysteriously to the administrator. The executor had threatened publicly to tell something she knew unless the jewels were returned at once.

Pullmans Leave the Track.

Canton, O., Aug. 8.—The Pennsylvania eighteen-hour train on its way to Chicago was wrecked at East Tuscarawas street in this city, and every one of its six Pullmans left the track. Of the many passengers on the train none was seriously hurt, although many suffered from the shock and bruises.

A Long-Distance Flight.

London, Aug. 8.—Willows, an English aviator, flew last night from Cardiff to London, a distance of 150 miles. He was unaccompanied. His flight breaks the English record for distance.

JOHN W. DWIGHT
"Whip of the House" the Subject of Insurgent Attack.

DWIGHT THE SUBJECT OF INSURGENT ATTACK

"Whip" of the House Faces a Political Storm.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Insurgency is a field in the Thirtieth congressional district, represented by John W. Dwight of Dryden, the Republican "whip." Through the columns of his newspaper, former State Tax Commissioner George E. Priest of Ithaca has announced his opposition to the renomination of Mr. Dwight, and declares that even if he is named his newspaper will not support him.

The Ithaca Journal is the oldest Republican newspaper in this part of the state. Following is Priest's attack on Dwight in part:

"A majority of the voters are opposed to Dwight's methods and to his return to congress and further maintenance of his machine in control. Some lifelong Republicans assure us that so confirmed is the hostility against Dwight, should he again nominate himself by his henchmen delegates, he will be repudiated by Tompkins county voters at the election by several hundred votes. If his refusal to retire his offensive personality for the benefit of the party is persisted in, the party's only recourse will be to retire him by refusing to vote for him. It may have been assumed that having been unvarying in its support of all Republican candidates heretofore, the Journal will fall into line for the continued dominance of this obnoxious boss in event of his again foisting himself on the ticket. This it will not do. Tompkins county Republicans are willing to accept any worthy aspirant for congress from any other county in the district."

The Toll of the Railroads.

Washington, Aug. 8.—A considerable increase in the number of persons killed and injured on the railways of the United States during the months of January, February and March, 1910, is shown over the corresponding period of last year in the interstate commerce commission's report. The total number killed during the quarter was 1,100 and 21,232 were injured. This was an increase of 466 killed and 6,110 injured as compared with the corresponding period last year. There were nineteen killed on electric railways and 669 injured.

CUMMINS FOR PRESIDENCY

That Is the Slogan of Western Insurgents.

LA FOLLETTE FAVORS PLAN

It Is Reported at Des Moines That the Wisconsin Senator Would Stand Behind the Iowa Candidate, Having No Hopes Himself in That Direction—The Cummins Boom Has Been Definitely Launched by His Supporters.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 8.—That Senator Albert D. Cummins is the logical candidate for western insurgency to support for the presidential nomination in the campaign of 1912 is the settled conviction of his factional constituents and to the reaching of that consummation all the energies, resources and enthusiasm which his devoted followers can summon will be devoted.

A meeting in his office in this city, taken part in by former Lieutenant Governor Warren Garst, Editor A. B. Fank, State Senator James A. Smith, State Binder E. D. Chassell, ex-Senator Frank Maytag, Congressman E. H. Hubbard, ex-Congressman Curtis, and several others of similar standing and influence, the situation was analyzed and discussed.

There were those present who reported that assurances had been received that Wisconsin would stand behind the Iowa candidate so far as Senator La Follette's influence was concerned—that the Wisconsin statesman had no hopes of being able to land a presidential nomination himself and that if he could barely win the desperate fight for a renomination which is ahead of him he would be glad to then come to the aid of his colleague and bosom friend.

The fact that it has already been announced by Senator Cummins that he will stump Wisconsin for La Follette is interpreted here as plainly indicating that there is an understanding between the two men. The plausibility of the story which leaked out is emphasized by Senator Cummins' action of a few days ago in announcing an entire change of program for the fall months. He had made extensive lecture contracts before Chautauqua crowds with a local lyceum bureau, but has ordered them all cancelled, and states that after a few days' rest he will take the stump in Indiana for Beveridge and in Wisconsin for La Follette, after which he will invade Kansas, Nebraska and Washington in behalf of the insurgents for congressional candidates.

DIDN'T MATERIALIZE

Promised Revolutionary Demonstration at San Sebastian Came to Naught.

San Sebastian, Aug. 8.—Aside from the presence of an unusual number of soldiers, priests and Basque peasants on the streets, the town wore its usual Sunday appearance yesterday. Unmindful of the recently threatened trouble, the people went to church as is their custom, and then laughed and chatted while they strolled in the public squares and parks. In the afternoon there was a tremendous throng at the bull fight, and the last thing that seemed to be on the minds of the people was the recent disturbances. About 3,000 regular troops occupied strategic points in the more thickly populated sections of the city, while 4,000 more were in reserve.

Had Good Time at Beverly.

New York, Aug. 8.—The president of the republic of Chili, with his party, returned Sunday night from Beverly, where they had paid a visit to Mr. Taft. President Montt expressed himself as delighted with the attention that had been given him and his party, and said that his stay in Boston and his visit to the president had been "delightful." The party will sail for Europe tomorrow morning.

century, a man with a view of greater things to come, after this nation has solved all of the great problems of the age which are now confronting it. He stands for all that is good and pure in this life of activity and progress. The Ohio man, who is so busy, so he said, that he had not had a good night's sleep in three weeks, spoke to a good sized audience in the afternoon on "A Trinity of Power." He held his audience for just one hour and forty minutes, without an intermission, and never was there a lull in the whole time, which was filled with crisp and witty sayings and again a pathetic story, which would cause an occasional tear to fall only to be brushed away. Dr. Herbert stands out unique and novel, a lecturer to be remembered at the local chautauqua assembly. He made history yesterday by taking the liberty to make statements which some men would not dare to make on the lyceum stage. They were all received with the heartiest appreciation, because if he suggested something that struck too near home, he was generally right back the next instant with a happy remembrance which brought convulsions of laughter.

Dr. Herbert pleased a large audience in the afternoon and more than pleased an immense one in the evening. His trinity of power was education, patriotism, and religion. Religion, where Americans excel, patriotism, where Americans surpass, and religion, where Americans are broad-minded and free thinkers. He said that the public school system of the United States was the greatest in the world as has been proven by the fact that many nations have copied after it. As a progressive, he held out great things for the United States, which country he said must solve all of the entanglements of this age. He did not spend much time on religion, only to plead for the broad minded man, the one who is not biased by creed or form and ventured the opinion that not many years will have passed before creeds and forms will be things of ancient history.

In relation to the religious end of his talk, the Rev. Mr. Herbert unwound a tale, so funny that it was almost convulsing. In speaking of foreign missions—and he hastened to explain very piously that he believed in them—he said "Foreign missions have done a great work in the far east especially in Africa. They have been sending missionaries there for years, but they never returned alive as the man-eating cannibals always devoured them. But now they have converted those heathens and they are the best christians you ever saw. They are even so religious now that they have a decoration day every year, when they decorate the graves of the departed missionaries. They have a big parade and the black fellows march down the streets with big wreaths on their stomachs bearing the inscription, 'Here lies the body of our dead missionaries.'" A dead silence fell over the crowded tent for an instant and then a roar of laughter. But he hushed them with this, "But at the head of the parade walked the big chief, he also with a wreath on his stomach which read, 'Here lies the body of the Rev. John P. Thompson. He was a man of excellent tastes.'" In the evening Dr. Herbert proved that he was a foot ball fanatic of the rarest type. In the course of his lecture on "A Man Among Men," when he brought out forcibly that this is primarily a young man's age. He gave a first class imitation of a typical college game. He hopped, skipped and jumped, made an end run, forward pass, one-sided kick, delayed pass, center rush and every other play that is common in the most popular of all college games. He acknowledged that he was an enthusiast of the rankest kind and related an incident of the manner in which he rode all the way from Iowa to Findlay, Ohio, to see his son break his nose and win the game by making a touchdown in the last ten seconds of play.

All in all, Dr. Herbert was a pleasure, a rare treat and gave the chautauqua such an impetus on its eight-day journey that it is highly probable that it can not recover inside of ten days.

DEATH COMES TO A YOUNG INFANT

Maxine Mary Henry Succumbs to Cholera Infantum This Morning at Nine O'clock.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW

Maxine Mary Henry, the eleven-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Henry, died at the home of her parents, near Orange, this morning at nine o'clock. Cholera infantum was the cause of the infant's death. Her death comes as a great shock to her parents for her smile was the cheer of the little household. Every effort was made to prolong her life, but the disease that plays havoc with so many infants caused her to leave a vacant cradle in the home. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon, but the hour has not been definitely set. Burial will be made in the north cemetery, near Orange.

IS POPULATION ON INCREASE?

Reports Show That in July There Were More Births Than Deaths.

CONTRARY BY COMPARISON

In the city of Rushville in the month of July there were eight deaths and four births, there being 100 per cent more deaths than births. The same month last year showed five births and four deaths. In the country with the exception of Rushville and Carthage corporation there were thirteen deaths and twenty-five births. In the month of July, 1909, in the same territory there were five deaths and twenty-six births. This brings the entire number of births that have been reported in the county, with the exception of Carthage in the last month to twenty-nine and the deaths to twenty-one, an increase in deaths of twelve and decrease in births of two. This brings the question, will population keep on increasing?

AMUSEMENTS

The Star Grand Air Dome offers two Biograph subjects tonight. The first is a comedy entitled "Serious Sixteen." How serious young things can be when they are in love is amply shown in this film. The second subject is a drama entitled "As the Bells Rang Out," in which there is some fine acting. Earl Robertson will sing, "I Love You."

The Vaude management will give a good program tonight in the film, "The Disguised Bridegroom." It is a comedy drama with a plot combining drama and fun in an artistic manner. The experiences which the bridegroom meet are decidedly humorous. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Palace theater will have a complete change of program tonight.
